

The research for “College on the Cheap: Consequences of Community College Tuition Reductions” was supported in part by a Spencer/NAEd Dissertation Fellowship. No other financial support was received. No party had the right to review the paper prior to circulation but the Texas Educational Research Center did review results to make sure that guidelines on student anonymity were followed.

The author is a Policy Fellow at the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB). The THECB coordinates Texas higher education and seeks to expand access, improve equality, and promote efficiency. They also collect data on higher education institutions in Texas.

The project was determined to be exempt from IRB review by the University of Texas at Austin’s IRB.