

February 12, 2017

Subject: Disclosure Statement

I herewith declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in the paper
"The Price of Prejudice," with Morten Størling Hedegaard.

In this paper, we report data of a field experiment with human subjects conducted at the premises of the University of Copenhagen. An IRB approval was not obtained because my institution at that time – Department of Economics of the University of Copenhagen – did not require submitting projects in experimental economics to the internal review.

The project was funded by the Rockwool Foundation which has as objective to "support scientific, humanitarian, artistic, and/or social activities, and to contribute to improving environmental conditions and development in society" (<http://www.rockwoolfonden.dk/>).

Over the last 3 years, I have received funding from various National science foundations (Austria: FWF, Norway: Norwegian Research Council).

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'J. Tyran'.

Best regards,
Jean-Robert Tyran