

The Impact of Maternal Literacy and Participation Programs: Evidence from a Randomized Evaluation in India

Disclosure Statement

Rukmini Banerji

This study was funded by a grant from the International Initiative for Impact Evaluation, which supported the field data collection for the research and evaluation part of the project. One of the principal investigators, Dr. Rukmini Banerji, received $25,000 in payment and fringe benefits from this grant.

During the evaluation period Dr. Banerji served as a Director of ASER Centre, the research and assessment arm of Pratham Education Foundation (the Indian non-governmental organization that designed and ran the interventions that are evaluated in this paper). She has been the Chief Executive Officer and Director of Pratham Education Foundation since July 2015. Dr. Banerji was involved in the design of the program and the evaluation, the implementation of the program, and the final paper review, but not with the data collection and the analysis of the data.

The project was reviewed and approved by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Committee on the Use of Humans as Experimental Subjects, protocol #1102004358.

No other party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.
