

Disclosure Statement for Alejandro del Valle

Manuscript: Rules for Recovery: Impact of Indexed Disaster Funds on Shock Coping in Mexico

By: Alejandro del Valle, Alain de Janvry, and Elisabeth Sadoulet.

Atlanta, GA, August 17, 2019

Financial support for Alejandro del Valle

Financial support came from Georgia State University in the form of wages as an assistant professor.

-Relevant relations

- The author declares he has no relevant material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.
- The author declares not to have any paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of any profit-making or non-profit entity.
- None of the author's close relatives have any relevant paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of any profit-making or non-profit entity whose policy positions, goals or financial interests relate to this research.

-Prior review:

The authors were free to write the paper without any external party reviewing the paper prior to circulation.

-In-kind support:

Administrative data from Fonden and Conagua were made available, free of charge, by the Secretariat of Finance and Public Credit, in Mexico City. The data is not publicly available but can be requested by anyone. See instructions on obtaining the data on the readme file of the data repository.

The World Bank provided resources for the production of monthly night light composites by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The data was made available to us free of charge.

Previous versions:

An early version of this paper was circulated in conferences/seminars under the title Insuring Growth: The Impact of Disaster Funds on Economic Reconstruction in Mexico

IRB approval:

No IRB approval was requested for this research because it is not a human subject research: It is entirely based on publicly available data, satellite imagery, and administrative data that is not personally identifiable.

Alejandro del Valle
Assistant Professor
Georgia State University