

Disclosure Statement

I, Lorena Keller, have received grants from three different sources within the Wharton School for this project, "Arbitraging Covered Interest-Rate Parity Deviations and Bank Lending." These grants are: Jacobs Levy Equity Management Center for Quantitative Financial Research ($20,000 in total for four separate grants), Wharton's Dean Research Fund ($27,670 in total for two separate grants), and Wharton's Global Initiatives Research Program ($12,000 in total for two separate grants).

This project has also benefited from access to confidential data obtained from the Superintendencia de Banca y Seguros (SBS) in Peru. Access to this data only requires me to keep confidential the names of banks and firms, but I have no restrictions for publishing any results I find. No party has the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.

Besides these grants and access to the data, I have nothing else to disclose.
