Author: Stephen A. Woodbury

Manuscript Title: Employers and Unemployment Insurance Take-up

Disclosure Statement: I declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

Data disclosure: The data used in the paper are restricted administrative data that we have used under a data sharing agreement with the Washington State Department of Employment Security. As a result, we would not be able make the data available for posting on the AER's data repository. We would, however, provide the programs used to generate the results, and these could be used by researchers who obtain the Washington data independently to replicate the estimates in the paper.

Our use of the data for this submission and the research based on them are consistent with the policies and procedures of the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research, Michigan State University, Stanford University, and the organizations and agencies from which the data was obtained. The Washington Employment Security Department has approved disclosure of the information in this paper.
