

Disclosure of Financial Relationships for Robert E. Hall

I attend conferences and meetings at the Federal Reserve Board and regional Federal Reserve Banks, at the European Central Bank, and at the central banks of other countries, including the United Kingdom, Portugal, Chile, and Canada. In some cases, I receive honorariums for my participation. My wife, Susan Woodward, has similar relations with the Federal Reserve System. I am a regular participant in the Brookings Panel on Economic Activity, a member of its advisory committee, and receive an annual honorarium. My daughter, Anne Elizabeth Hall, is a staff economist in the US Treasury, office of the Assistant Secretary for Policy Analysis. I serve on the advisory committees of the Journal of Economic Perspectives and the NBER Macro Annual. I serve on a National Academy of Sciences panel on re-engineering the annual economic censuses of the Bureau of the Census.
