I, Kevin Cooke, have not received any funding contingent on the outcome of this research. My work on this project occurred primarily while I was a graduate student at Boston University and continued during my employment at Analysis Group. I also received financial support from the Mercatus Center as part of their Adam Smith fellowship program.

None of my financial compensation has been tied specifically to this project nor do any entities have the right to review or approve this research.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "K Cooke", is positioned above a horizontal dashed line.
