

Ariel Binder Disclosure Statement for

“When Sarah Meets Lawrence: The Effects of Coeducation on Women’s College Major Choices”

Ariel Binder acknowledges financial support from the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development of the National Institutes of Health under Award Number T32HD007339, as well as use of the services and facilities of the Population Studies Center at the University of Michigan, funded by the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development of the National Institutes of Health under Award Number P2CHD041028. Additional financial support for this paper was provided by a William Haber Graduate Fellowship from the University of Michigan in 2019 and the George Katona Economic Behavior Research Award from the University of Michigan in 2020.

IRB approval was not sought for this paper because it does not include human subjects research. IPEDS data was downloaded from the NCES website, and HEGIS and HERI data were downloaded from ICPSR. Merges between the HERI college identifiers and the HEGIS/IPEDS data were performed by Ellen Stolzenberg at HERI.

The content is solely the responsibility of the authors and does not represent the official views of the National Institutes of Health, nor of the U.S. Census Bureau.