

Police use of force as an extension of arrests:
Examining disparities across civilian and officer race

Emily K. Weisburst

Disclosure Statement:

This article received no specific or particular funding to support the research it describes.

Over the past three years, Emily Weisburst has received fellowship funding from the University of Texas Continuing Graduate Fellowship, the National Academy of Education Spencer Dissertation Fellowship and the University of California, Los Angeles. None of these organizations have a financial, ideological or political stake in the research.

Emily Weisburst has not held any paid or unpaid positions as an officer, director, or board member of a relevant non-profit organization or profit-making entities. Emily Weisburst has no additional related disclosures for her spouse or close family members.

No external parties had the right to review the research before publication.