

The author, Leslie Martin, has received research funding from the Australian Research Council (Australian National Science Foundation), Discovery Early Career Research Award DE190101167, for research on “The Environmental Costs and Benefits of Special Economic Zones”, which relates to this paper.

The author declares that she has no other relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in the paper, ‘Changing population exposure to pollution in China's Special Economic Zones’.